FARMERS' DAY THE BEST EVER

Expectations More than Met in Every Way. Crowd of People from Every Part of the County See Exhibits and Parade. Features.

Gettysburg's 1915 Farmers' Day is an absolute and unqualified success. The most sanguine hoped for nothing so good as is this celebration. A brisk autumn day, crowds surpassing those of any previous year, exhibits of which any county fair might well be proud, a highly creditable parade, music all afternoon, entertainment, and a general good time contributed to make this event a record breaker for Gettysburg and Adams County.

The care and energy with which all details of the day had been arranged practically assured its success if the weather should be favorable, and the man in charge of that department at Washington—remembering the trick he played last year—was kind and sent along an invigorating day. The result was inevitable.

From six o'clock in the morning until early in the afternoon all roads leading to Gettysburg had their long strings of vehicles of various descriptions. Buggies, carriages, runabouts and automobiles made up the procession coming in by eight or ten different routes and covering every section of the county. Railroads and automobile bus lines were taxed to handle the crowds but they had made special preparations to do this and no one was disappointed.

Especially noticeable was the number of people from Abbotstown, East Berlin, and other portions of the county who usually deal in Hanover and York. Gettysburg got more of these than ever before and they became more thoroughly acquainted with our merchants.

Once here, the visitors had plenty to do. In every business place of town of any consequence there were exhibits to view. Early in the process of arranging for this year's Farmers' Day there were some who pointed out the fact that 1914 saw a smaller number of exhibits than the year preceding and predicted a further decrease this fall. Their predictions went far wrong for the quantity and quality of the exhibits were generally declared to be ahead of any other season.

Displays of the finest cakes, pies, candies, canned fruits, and other products of the kitchen; of big tomatoes, potatoes, and other vegetables; of apples, pears, grapes, watermelons, and quinces; of corn, wheat, and oats; of fancy work; of butter; and the many other things for which prizes were offered, were exceptionally fine, and the prize winners may consider themselves highly honored when the awards are made known.

The judges for the various exhibits were as follows:

SOAPS: Mrs. C. F. Criswell, Bendersville; Mrs. Curtis Sowers, McKnightstown, and Mrs. Mock, Gardners.

FANCY ARTICLES, LACE, ETC. Mrs. Clara Rebert, Cashtown; and Mrs. George Julius, Littlestown.

CAKES: Mrs. Dennis Asper, Aspers; Mrs. George Kebl, Fairfield, and Mrs. Burton Alleman, Littlestown.

PEACHES: Chester Tyson, Flora Dale; and H. G. Baugher, Aspers.

VEGETABLES: J. B. Twining, Gettysburg, and John Garretson, Biglerville.

FRUITS: H. G. Baugher, Arendtsville, and Elias Hoffman, Arendtsville.

GRAINS: E. M. Wolf, Gettysburg and William J. Chrismer, Mt. Pleasant township.

When congratulations for the success of the day are in order, it will be up to all concerned to take off their hats to W. E. Ziegler without whose energy and interest the event would not have been held. For several weeks the question of observing the occasion hung in the balance, until Mr. Ziegler agreed to take it in charge and it was his persistency that carried it through. His suggestions were adopted in almost every instance and on him fell the burden of work and responsibility. He was ably assisted by Robert Eckert who helped in getting up the premium list and in whatever other ways he could.

An erroneous impression was given out this morning that the Citizens' Band had declined to play before noon. This was incorrect as no request for their services in the morning was made. The band was on hand this afternoon and acquitted itself most creditably, both in the parade and in the concert. There was no dearth of music at any time, and that end of the celebration was as carefully looked after as were the many other details.

The exhibit of the Gettysburg Ice and Storage Company at the First National Bank corner was attractive as it was novel. Four 300-pound cakes of ice were exhibited. One of them was a deep blue, another a deep red, and a white one between completed the national colors. In the fourth cake of clear ice was suspended an American flag.

The exhibits of the Tyson Orchards in the Dougherty and Hartley window attracted general attention. Some of Adams County's best fruit was beautifully displayed in boxes, a number of different varieties of perfect apples being shown. The apple exhibits generally about town were of the first class quality to be expected from the county's best orchards.

This year was the first Farmers' Day observance at which there were a number of refreshment stands doing business. "Hot dogs", hot slaw, sandwiches, ice cream cones, and other things were on sale. The restaurants had made special preparations to handle the crowds and all were well cared for. Balloons, ticklers and other fun making devices were sold on the streets during the day.

Funkhouser's middle window attracted as large crowds as any single feature of the day. Premature fall winds made the temperature seem unusually cool on the outside, while inside the window was a "man" done up in fur overcoat, fur cap, and all the other things necessary to safeguard one from chilling blasts. A vigorous snow scene was produced with an abundance of white feathers kept in constant motion by two electric fans.

G. W. Weaver and Son delighted the hearts of a thousand little ones by giving out that many toy balloons which the youngsters carried about with them. Strings were attached to them, and when the brightly colored balls were carried about town it gave every appearance of circus day or a county fair.

Four extra police officers were put on for duty during the day, not to take care of any offenders particularly but more for the purpose of handling the heavy traffic and seeing that every one was taken care of. They were very courteous and their attentions were much appreciated.

The way in which Farmers' Day has come to be a fall feature at Gettysburg is shown in many ways, but one of them which perhaps is not generally recognized is in the returning of people to visit friends here over that day. From neighboring counties a number of persons came Friday and this morning to spend the week-end and enjoy the event. Most of them were here last year and, when they heard of the arrangements for to-day, they wrote asking "permission to visit."

The railroads were true to their promises and extra cars were placed on all trains with the result that the crowds were handled successfully on their way here.

Guessing contests were again held by several stores but, through the Post Office ruling which prohibits these being advertised in the newspapers, not so many are held as was formerly the case. The ones which were in progress were popular as ever.

County Treasurer Spangler was busy all day issuing hunters' licenses and he had little opportunity to see what was going on outside of the Court House. It is coming to be more and more the custom that people who do not come to town frequently delay small items of business until Farmers' Day and then transact them all at one time.

The display of tall stalks of corn at the Compiler office was again interesting. One of the stalks reached almost to the second story window and others were not much shorter. Kirsin's display of large pumpkins was another window that got the attention of the crowds.

The manufacturers of various products are coming to recognize the value of using Farmers' Day for demonstrating their wares and products, and at several places in town

GETTYSBURG MAN IN FATAL CRASH

Harry Snyder at Wheel when Car Overturned, Killing Son of his Employer. Blamed for Driving too Close to Edge of the Road.

Harry Snyder, formerly of Gettysburg, narrowly escaped death in an automobile accident near Sunbury this week. The machine he was driving turned over twice when he got too close to the edge of the road, and Charles Mullen, son of John Mullen, a millionaire Shamokin banker and manufacturer, was almost instantly killed.

Misses Helen, Clara, and Letitia Mullen, daughters of the financier, escaped with superficial injuries, while Mr. Snyder sustained lacerations about the head and scalp.

According to the story of Miss Letitia Mullen, Snyder turned to pass a disabled car along the inside of the road and got too close to the edge. The soft earth gave away and the car turned over twice, righting itself with the women and driver still in. Mullen lay face downward along the road and unconscious. They were taken to the Mary M. Packer Hospital at Sunbury, but doctors said Mullen was dead. He was 39 years old and was junior member of the firm of John T. Mullen & Sons, iron founders.

Mr. Snyder has been in the employ of the elder Mullen for about a year. Before going to Shamokin he was chauffeur for J. A. Ring during his residence here. Mr. Snyder's wife and child reside with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Plank, of North Stratton street.

FILING FOR TAGS

Already Making Applications for Automobile Licenses for Next Year.

The State Highway Department has commenced the distribution of blanks for the registration of automobiles for 1916 to persons making application and judging from the inquiries made there will be thousands of applications listed before the end of November. The applications will be filed as rapidly as received and shipments started plenty of time before the end of the year. At the department it is stated that the display of 1916 tags will be required on January 1 and no excuses accepted.

WON MEDAL

Fairfield Girl Gets Award at Two Taverns Contest.

Miss Luella Rock, of Fairfield, won the gold medal at the contest under the auspices of the W. C. T. U. at Two Taverns, Friday evening. There were seven contestants and the church was crowded.

these were matters of interest to the visitors. Not a few out of town firms contributed prizes through their local retailers.

Funkhouser's gave away a supply of small savings banks and rulers as long as they lasted, and one or two other stores had gifts for all callers.

This was the first year that a premium was offered for home made soap and the result was most gratifying. The second floor of the Weaver store saw a most interesting display.

Five hundred free tickets were given out at the Citizens' Trust Company to visitors who took advantage of the offer of the Gettysburg Battle Picture Association to visit the cyclorama.

The Boy Scouts helped to handle the crowds during the afternoon.

More than forty entries were made for the china closet offered by the local furniture companies for the plate of the best crullers. The prize was awarded to Mrs. Louis Weigandt, of Baltimore street.

HUNDREDS SEE LARGE PARADE

Bands and United States Artillery Add Life to One of the Day's Principal Events. Afternoon Concerts Follow Immediately.

Highly creditable and thoroughly enjoyed was the parade which marked the middle portion of the afternoon program of Farmers' Day. Through lines of people five and six deep, the column moved over the announced route and it was generally declared to be one of the best demonstrations staged here under the direction of local people.

The Knights of Pythias Band, of Hanover, which was announced to lead the parade was late arriving, due to one of their automobile trucks breaking down, and the Citizens' Band of Gettysburg headed the column in most acceptable fashion. Congressman-at-Large Daniel F. Lefane and Congressman Beales were in the first automobile following the band and were given an ovation all along the line of march. The borough council in automobiles, Corporal Skelly Post 9, and the degree teams of the Patriotic Order Sons of America and the Order of Independent Americans in their attractive uniforms, made up the remainder of the first division of the parade.

Battery E, Third United States Artillery, looking its best with the men in full uniform and the guns and caissons in first class condition for the display, were heartily received all along the line of march. Captain Jones acknowledging graciously a cheer given his command by the college boys as they proceeded on Chambersburg street.

The College Band lead the next division which had as its first entry the apparatus of the Gettysburg Fire Department drawn by two teams of fine horses.

Floats of local firms and other interests followed, including Funkhouser's, the cars of various local automobile dealers, J. Carna Smith's "boys from Barlow," T. J. Winebrenner's and the fine Belgian horses from the Twining Stock farm, Miss Martha Twining driving a team of heavy grays and Mr. Twining and his men bringing several others of his best horses.

The Mountain Valley Band of Ardenstville led the final division of horses and teams. Charlie Chaplins were scattered throughout the column and the parade was thoroughly enjoyed.

Immediately after the parade had covered its route and been reviewed from the stand erected in the middle of Centre Square the band concerts were started. The Hanover Band arrived in time to lead the artillery past the reviewing stand and took their position there for the remainder of the afternoon at the conclusion of the parade.

The Sheldons gave their two exhibitions of balancing and tumbling before and after the parade and the afternoon was a full one.

DENVER CLUB GETS HOWARD

Gettysburg Patriots' Star Pitcher Goes to Colorado and Local Management Gets Three Hundred Dollars for him.

Secretary J. Allen Holtzworth of the Gettysburg Base Ball Club this morning received from President Boyer of the Blue Ridge League a check for $300 for pitcher Earl Howard who has been drafted by the Denver Club.

The check came through Secretary Farrell of the National Commission. It is not known that the Denver Club is a "farm" for any of the eastern leagues and it is likely that Howard will be with the organization all of next year.

Gettysburg's $300 comes at the expense to the team of the services of its most dependable pitcher and his loss will mean a great gap to be filled in the ranks of the club next year. Greenwell is not on the reserve list of players, and Herril and Plank are the only ones left with which to open the season unless some new material is discovered between this time and the spring.

The $300, however, more than makes up the deficit incurred this season and the club will start 1916 with a clean slate.

BOYS' LUCKY ESCAPE

Boys Thrown out when Machine Hits Bridge Wall.

In an accident near Abbotstown Friday evening five Hanover boys were thrown from a new Maxwell automobile over the wing wall of a bridge, about six feet to the ground. Four of them escaped injury but the fifth, John Witter, 15 years old, received a cut on his forehead that required seven stitches. The accident happened at the bridge at Wolf's tannery and was caused, it is said, by another motoring party failing to give sufficient room for the Maxwell to pass. The Hanover car was held on the wing wall of the bridge where it caught fire and was badly damaged. The other machine did not stop and the number of the tag was not taken.

DONATED MONEY

School Organization Decides to Contribute to Two Causes.

The Parent Teachers' Association, at their monthly meeting Friday evening, appropriated $25 to the Kurtz Playground and $20 for a teacher for the High School orchestra. The entertainment part of the program was given as announced and Prof. Roy D. Knouse, principal of the Littlestown schools, gave an excellent talk on the relation of home and school. Miss Rosa Scott's room was awarded the banner for having the largest number of parents present. These committees were appointed:

Program: George P. Black, Miss Mary Benner, and Mrs. W. F. Gilliland. Visiting: Mrs. Emory Forrest, Mrs. Elmer Musselman, Mrs. S. R. Schriver, Mrs. Markley, Mrs. William Hull, Mrs. Roy Zinn.

GREECE REFUSES TO AID SERBIA

Bulgarian Army Reported Attacking on East Front.

MENACED BY TWO FLEETS

Russian Warships Shell Varna While the Allied Squadron Prepares to Bombard Dedeagatch.

London, Oct. 9.—Russia has actually opened hostilities against Bulgaria by a bombardment of the Black sea port of Varna, according to an Amsterdam despatch. The arrival of two Russian squadrons off this port was reported a few days ago.

A squadron of Anglo-French warships, drawn from the Dardanelles fleet, is standing off Dedeagatch and is preparing to bombard the Bulgarian fortress, according to advices from Salonika. Dedeagatch is Bulgaria's only port on the Aegean sea. M. Zaimis, the new Greek premier, and his neutrality cabinet have decided that the terms of the Serbian-Greek alliance do not require the intervention of Greece in the war to defend Serbia, according to an Athens despatch. A declaration of "benevolent neutrality" will be sent to the entente powers.

This decision, completely endorsing the position taken by King Constantine, was reached at an all-night session of the ministry.

Announcement came from Sofia that the ministers representing the entente powers had asked for their passports Wednesday night. The Italian minister joined with the French, British and Russian representatives in this action, although he had handed no note to the Bulgarian government.

The Belgian and Serbian ministers applied for and received their passports Thursday. The Dutch minister has taken charge of the allied powers' interests.

Petrograd describes Bulgaria's reply to its ultimatum as "bold to the verge of insolence." In substance, Bulgaria denies German officers are in the staffs of the Bulgarian armies, but says that if they are present, that fact concerns only Bulgaria, which reserves the right to invite whomsoever it likes. Regarding acceptance of financial assistance from Germany, Bulgaria maintains the right to make loans wherever it pleases. As to the demand that relations be broken with the "enemies of Slavdom," the Bulgarian government asserts it is its privilege to choose friends to suit itself and join with any group it prefers.

The Teutonic invasion of Serbia is proceeding favorably, according to Berlin, progress in the crossing of the Drina, Save and Danube rivers by the Germans and Austrian armies under Field Marshal von Mackensen being reported by German army headquarters.

The capture of three cannon opposite Ram on the Danube, forty miles east of Belgrade, is announced. News from various sources places the strength of the Teutonic armies invading Serbia at 400,000 men. The troops which Bulgaria is able to throw against the eastern border of Serbia are supposed to be of about equal number. While there is no news yet at hand that the Bulgarian forces have moved to cross the frontier, it is generally supposed that the invasion has begun on the eastern side of Serbia as well as on the north and west.

The Serbian fighting strength is estimated at 350,000 men, while the French and English contingent is expected to reach a total of at least 150,000. French and British troops are being rushed northward from Salonika by express trains.

Virtually made over in guns and equipment, and stiffened by British and French effectiveness, it is predicted that the Serbians will offer stubborn resistance to the Austro-German advance. They will be assisted by the flood conditions in the Morava valley, down which Field Marshal von Mackensen hopes to force his way.

FRENCH FIGHT HARD TO CUT GERMAN LINE

Heavy Artillery Action Indicates Fresh Assaults.

Paris, Oct. 9.—The French have been obliged to fight continuously to hold the positions they captured at Tahure, but they are holding on and keeping up an active cannonading that presages fresh operations against the German line which they are biting desperately to cut.

North of Arras the cannonading continued, with both sides taking part. There was also artillery activity in the region of Roye and to the north of the River Alsne, the French war office reports.

In the Champagne district there was violent bombardment on the part of the German artillery with very energetic replies from the French cannon. There was also active fighting in the trenches southeast of Tahure.

Soldiers wounded at the capture of Tahure, now arriving in Paris, all are of the opinion that the French are gaining the upper hand, not only through their artillery, but because of the gallantry and dash of the infantry.

FIGHTING FOR THE ALLIES

Seven American Aviators Take Part in Champagne Battle.

Paris, Oct. 9.—Seven American volunteer aviators took part in aerial reconnaissance in the battle of Champagne. They are Lieutenant William Thaw, of Pittsburgh; Sergeant Elliot C. Cowdin, of New York; Sergeant Norman Prince, Boston; D. G. Mason, San Francisco; Bert Hall, Bowling Green, Ky.; James J. Bach, New York, and H. G. Gerin.

Five more American airmen are scouting and raiding on other parts of the French line, and eleven are in training in an aviation school. These twenty-three men form the Franco-American flying corps, which has just opened an office and club rooms on Rue de Pontneuf, Paris.

Three of the Americans—Lieutenant Thaw and Sergeants Prince and Cowdin—have been cited in the orders of the day for their feats.

Peking, Oct. 9.—Japan has notified China that unless Japan's demands regarding jurisdiction over the Koreans residing in Chentao, in the Kirin region of Manchuria, are accepted, Japan will pursue her own course in supporting her claim, by military force if necessary.

The Japanese claims, it is stated, are based on the May, 1915, agreement between China and Japan. China maintains that Chentao is not mentioned in this agreement and that the previous agreement holds good.

TRAIN BANDITS GET $500,000

Two Masked Men Hold Up B. & O. Express.

ROBBER RUNS THE ENGINE

Cut Off Mail Car, They Loot It Completely—Posses in Pursuit of the Robbers.

Clarksburg, W. Va., Oct. 9.—Two masked men held up and robbed a Baltimore & Ohio express train of $500,000 in unsigned bank notes and 100 registered packages near Central Station, W. Va. A hastily organized posse was sent in pursuit of the bandits and is reported to have sighted four suspects in the foothills near the scene of the robbery.

The train was nearly an hour late when Drant Helms, the engineer was attracted by a noise from the tender. Looking over his shoulder he saw two masked men climbing over the coal, each carrying an automatic shotgun.

One of the men ordered Helms to cut off the engine and through mail from the remainder of the train, and then stood by Helms directing the distance he should run it. When two miles to the west had been covered, the highwaymen ordered Helms to stop and climb down, while the fireman was compelled to do likewise. The other masked man then took the throttle, and ran the train a mile or two farther west. Here the robbers went through the mail car, paying particular attention to the registered mail which they looted completely and then they deserted the train, going across the hills in the direction of the Ohio river.

Meantime the crew left with the remainder of the train had been trying to find the engine. They knew nothing of what had happened except that the engine and mail car had disappeared toward the west, no attempt having been made by the highwaymen to disturb the sleeping passengers. Men were sent forward and soon located the fireman hastening back to give the alarm. Engineer Helms having gone in search of his engine. He found the locomotive on the rails, with the fire drawn from under the boiler and the valves so arranged as to prevent any accident because of increasing steam pressure.

More than two hours elapsed from the time of the robbery until the news could be sent to division headquarters at Parkersburg, and to Grafton, the other nearest town with telegraphic communication at that hour. But immediately railroad and county officers were active. Messages were sent in all directions, a special train carrying detectives was sent to the scene of the robbery, and posse aggregating more than a hundred men were scouring the country before daybreak in Harrisburg, Doddridge and Pleasants counties.

HELD FOR GREAT FRAUD

Four Former Manitoba Ministers Accused of Conspiracy.

Winnipeg, Man., Oct. 9.—Sir Rodman Roblin, former premier of Manitoba, and three other former cabinet ministers, charged with conspiracy to defraud the province in connection with the erection of parliament buildings, were committed for trial before a higher court at the close of their preliminary hearing here.

Bail for the four men was fixed at $50,000 each. The three other men committed with Sir Rodman are Dr. W. H. Montagu, former minister of public works; J. H. Howden, former attorney general, and G. P. Coldwell, former minister of education.

Since the original charge was laid other charges have been preferred against three of the accused men, on account of destruction of public documents against Sir Rodman Roblin and Coldwell, and of perjury against Howden.

RUSSIANS GIVE WAY IN FRONT OF DVINSK

Petrograd Concedes Gains by Invaders in Furious Fighting.

Petrograd, Oct. 9.—There is renewed military activity on the northern end of the Russian front, from Dvinsk to Novo Grodek. The heaviest fighting is in the neighborhood of Dvinsk to the south of which the Germans have had some success. On the whole, however, the Russians have been able to withstand their assaults. The Germans have succeeded in crossing the Villya, north of Smorgon, enabling them to co-ordinate their forces north and south of this point. Concentration of considerable German forces in the vicinity of Tarnopol, in Galicia, about twenty-five miles south of the frontier, is believed here to be due to political conditions in the Balkans, rather than to an intention of menacing Kiev. Comparative quiet prevails throughout the southern fighting area.

HELD IN ENGLAND AS SPY

Father of Princeton Student Trying to Have Him Released.

New York, Oct. 9.—Kenneth G. Triest, nineteen years old, who disappeared from Princeton University in January, is a prisoner in London, accused as a spy, according to information his relatives have received from the state department.

Triest is the son of Wolfgang G. Triest, member of a contracting firm. The father is a German by birth, but naturalized citizen of the United States.

He has been informed his son is accused of having enlisted in the British navy to obtain information for Germany. Mr. Triest said that he had presented to Secretary of State Lansing testimony to show the boy was mentally unbalanced and that he had asked Mr. Lansing to obtain the boy's discharge from custody and deportation to the United States.

Rich Woman Found Dead

Boston, Oct. 9.—The body of Mrs. Bowdoin B. Crownshield, wife of the yacht designer, of Marblehead, was found in a bath tub filled with hot water in a Boston hotel. The cause of death, according to George B. McGrath, medical examiner, was drowning. He said it was accidental, but an autopsy will be held.

One of Nature's Wonders.

A feature worthy of note is the grand canyon of the Rio Grande, which has been given the name of the Canyon of Santa Helena. It is of the box type, with solid, perpendicular walls. At the head of the canyon these walls are 500 feet high, at the mouth 1,500 feet, showing a surface slant of 1,000 feet.

Why We Work.

Young friends, in whatever pursuit you may engage, you must not forget that the lawful objects of human efforts are but means to higher results and nobler ends. Start not forward in life with the idea of becoming mere seekers of pleasure—sportive butterflies searching for gaudy flowers. Consider and act with reference to the true ends of existence.—E. H. Chapin.

Man's Achievement.

Reflect upon the disproportion between the achievements of man and the use he puts them to. He invents wireless telegraphy, and the ships call to one another day and night to tell the name of the latest winner. He is inventing the flying machine, and he will use it to advertise pills and drug bombs.

Cause of Worry.

Competent physicians are said to be agreed that most of the dyspepsia so prevalent today is due to nothing but worry. As in other cases, "competent physicians" confuse the cause with the effect. Dyspepsia is not due to worry, but worry is due to dyspepsia. All chronic dyspepsies worry while no person will worry who has sound digestion and a clean colon.

Brown Spots on Old China.

The beauty of old china is often destroyed by brown spots which appear on the surface, says the Toledo Blade. An effective way to remove these is to bury the dish in the earth, covering it completely. The darker spots require more time to remove than the lighter ones. This method will not harm the most delicate china.

Diamond as a Talisman.

The diamond, being the most precious and beautiful of gems, has innumerable legends connected with it, but it has always been considered the safest of talismans. Because it signifies purity, innocence, and joy, and is supposed to maintain peace, it has come to be the engagement symbol.

OUR NAVY TO LEAD WORLD IN SPEED

Biggest and Fastest Battle Cruisers Afloat on Program.

SECRET PLANS PREPARED.

Now Vessels Will Carry Eight Fourteen-inch Guns, and Rival Speed of Express Trains—Could Cross Atlantic in Three Days and Eight Hours—To Cost $18,000,000 Each.

A battle cruiser—such as proposed in our new naval program—plowing her way through the waters at thirty-five knots an hour, if it were possible to keep up that speed, would make the passage from the Ambrose channel lightship to Queenstown, the course over which the steamship Mauretania made her record of 4 days, 10 hours and 41 minutes, in approximately 3 days and 8 hours. The distance between these points is estimated at 2,814 knots, or nautical miles. The fastest day's run by the Mauretania was at the rate of 27.04 knots.

This comparison was pointed out to illustrate the value to the navy of a great battle cruiser which could be shifted from point to point, either along the coast or in transatlantic travel, at such a pace. There is no record of a ship now afloat which could hope to accomplish such a record run or cope with such a foe.

At 35 knots speed a battle cruiser could be transferred from New York to New Orleans on coast patrol duty, a distance of approximately 1,700 knots, in 48 hours 35 minutes, a feat which has never been accomplished or thought possible, certainly not for an armored battle cruiser carrying huge fourteen-inch guns. To make the run in some what under five days is considered good time by most of the coastwise passenger ships.

Will Be Outstanding Feature.

The outstanding and most distinctive feature of the naval program to be submitted to congress this winter will be a request for the construction of these battle cruisers superior in speed and power to anything now afloat.

Preliminary designs for these vessels have been prepared by the naval constructors and are before the general board, Secretary Daniels and the president for consideration. There are several alternative designs, but the particular one which will probably be adopted calls for a battle cruiser that will make 35 knots speed. This is equivalent to a fraction over forty land miles an hour. The fastest battle cruiser thus far built by any of the powers is credited for not more than 30 knots. Consequently the American battle cruiser would be able to sail rings around any foreign vessel of similar type now in commission.

Will Have Eight Inch Armor.

The final characteristics of the projected battle cruiser have not been determined by the experts of the general board of the navy, but the understanding is that this new type of vessel's main armor will be about eight inches thick and the vessel will mount eight fourteen-inch guns of 50 caliber. The cost of the battle cruiser will be about $18,000,000, or about $5,000,000 more than the Dreadnought battleships now being built for the United States navy. The battleships to be recommended in this year's naval program will also cost about $18,000,000 each.

Officials of the navy department refrained from disclosing the detailed characteristics of the projected battle cruiser. Secretary Daniels admitted that the vessel was designed for thirty-five knots. Another high official said the propelling machinery would consist of turbines. Beyond this no information was obtainable from any source as to the essential characteristics of the projected warship. When one high official was asked how it was proposed to obtain the speed of thirty-five nautical miles an hour he responded:

"That's our secret."

The American navy has no battle cruisers and is lacking in scout cruisers. Scouts are the eyes of a battleship fleet, and without them any combination of battleships, however powerful, is greatly handicapped. The recent naval war game disclosed the urgent need of scouts. The battle cruisers now projected will be able to serve as scouts, although that will not be the primary function of these units. The idea of experts of the navy is that there should be not less than a division of battle cruisers, and that it should be attached to the Atlantic battleship fleet. They would be utilized by the fleet in overtaking battleships of the enemy endeavoring to escape from or trying to elude the fleet, also in scouting to discover the presence of the enemy's fleet and in attacking vessels of the greatest power whenever taken by the superior speed of the battle cruisers.

The battle cruisers for which preliminary plans have been proposed for the navy will be Dreadnoughts in reality, as they may be classed as battleships of superior speed. As explained by one of the navy's experts, a battle cruiser is a vessel that has just a few less big guns, and just a little lighter armor than battleships, the sacrifices of both of which are compensated for by their great speed. Speed is an element which the American navy lacks. Its battleships are as fast as battleships generally abroad the world, but there is no large vessel in the navy that can now compare with the battle cruisers of England, Germany and Japan in speed.

GERMAN OFFICER OF CAMPAIGN

Famous Operatic Manager, Now a Commander, Praises Valor of Foes.

TELLS OF HORROR ON RUSSIAN SOIL

"We Will See It Through," He Continues, Confident of Success in the End.

SINCE I last had the pleasure to speak to the readers of the American newspapers a great change has come in my military life. I am back again at the front, and facing the enemy for the last month as commander of an infantry battalion, and this time it is not in the west, but in the east," writes Walter Bloom, the famous German operatic manager to the International News Service. He is captain and commander of a battalion now. Continuing, he says:

"During the first year of the war I had to fight against Belgians, Frenchmen and Englishmen, white men and men of all colors in Brabant, Henne-gau and northern France. Now it is the turn of the Russians.

"It happened this way: I had a very pleasant position in Brussels as Baron von Bissing, and I had there a large field for a certain activity. But after all, it was an activity that, though it was caused and emphasized by war conditions, was more of a peaceful nature, and I am a thorough soldier.

"The easy life in Brussels, the office work, the biding in luxurious drawing rooms while my comrades were fighting on the rough fields and slept in trenches—I could not stand it permanently. I had to go back on the field. Several times my request was denied. At last I succeeded.

Stages "Iphigenie" For Troops.

"And that, too, came to pass in a peculiar way. During the last time in Brussels I had done different little vacation jobs that were interesting in themselves, but only loosely connected with the military life of our titanic times with the world war.

"One day I, the former stage manager and dramaturge of the Court theater in Stuttgart, was given the task of staging "Iphigenie auf Tauris" in the Royal Park theater, the comparatively cozy playhouse opposite the Palais de la Nation.

"Many Dietrich of the Reinhardt theater, who two years ago played the priestess-princess for the first time as guest under my management in Stuttgart, was the most German, the most fairly like Iphigenie that can be imagined. Waldemar Röscher had, with the scientist's expedients, created a gloomy, fearful landscape. It was a proud, blessed night. And now "Iphigenie" was to be played in Antwerp.

"There we had, instead of the tiny rooco stage of Brussels, the gigantic stage of the Yvlish Opera House. One morning I traveled the actors to the metropolis on the Scheidt, and in an extended and lively rehearsal we adapted our production.

"Suddenly I was called to the telephone. Colonel von E., the commissioner for assignments of the governor general, spoke to me from Brussels—whether I still insisted on my often repeated request to go back to the front. Of course I did.

"You can have a battalion in the east immediately. Do you want it?" "Ever so much delighted."

Joins Army In East.

"All right, then; return to Brussels at once. The governor general and we comrades would like to be with you in cheerful company and to bid you farewell. You will leave tomorrow at 10 o'clock.

"And so it happened that I went from "Iphigenie" to the trenches on the Narew. In Berlin I embraced my wife and my eighteen-year-old daughter and my son, sixteen years old, who will join my regiment in a few days to fight as a volunteer.

"Again I am living the dreadfully glorious novel story, "War." These lines are written by me in a fortified shelter north of Bielsk. Over my head the shells from our side and from the other side meet, and once in awhile one of them strikes not at all very far from me and throws clouds of dirt over the board which forms my writing desk.

"All this is no chapter from a novel.

SWALLOWS CAN OF OPIUM.

Chinese Seeks to Hide Evidence—Tin Sticks In Throat.

Rather than be caught with drugs, Lee Hing of New York swallowed a round tin box one inch in diameter, containing opium, before the police could stop him. The box stuck in the Chinaman's throat.

Lee Hing has been arrested some fifteen times in the last two years for selling opium, but has always been able to get off through lack of evidence. He was arrested by Detectives Katz and Burns while setting a "toy" of the dope to Walter Clark, a Chinatown habitue.

The detectives were about to search the prisoner when he reached under his coat, and the next moment had clapped the box in his mouth.

HOW TO SAVE ON YOUR COAL BILLS

Bureau of Mines Issues Report Pointing Out Methods.

RESULTS OF PRACTICAL TEST

Sixty-seven Per Cent Can Often Be Saved by Skillful Use of Fuel—Few Simple Rules Are Laid Down by Expert Engineers—Haphazard Handling of Furnace Expensive.

A problem which reaches into nearly every home in the United States and touches the pocketbooks of several million householders is discussed seriously in a report issued the other day by the bureau of mines, department of the interior. Experts tell the public in detail just how in heating their homes this winter they may save in their coal bills.

The report, issued at a time when the cooler weather is upon the country and people are laying in their supply of coal, intimates that large savings can be made in nearly every home and gives specific figures of the results obtained in one home in which every effort was made to consume the coal properly.

The test referred to was made in a ten room house in New Haven, Conn., which was comfortably kept at a cost of $48 for the fall and winter, paying over other houses of the same size in the same locality of from $50 to $100.

According to Van H. Manning, director of the bureau of mines, similar results can be attained in hundreds of thousands of homes throughout the country with a consequent saving of millions of dollars.

Shows Low Cost of Heating.

"The report shows not only a low cost of heating," said Mr. Manning, "but also an economical use of fuel and illustrates what savings may be effected when the problem is given proper consideration. Systematic and regular handling of the fire doubtless had considerable to do with the results obtained. The cost of heating is probably $50 to $100 less than what is expended by a large number of householders who live in the same locality and have about the same heating requirements, but use more expensive coal and give their heating equipment less attention.

"The value a householder gets from the fuel he burns depends largely on the character of the heating apparatus, the conditions under which it is installed and the manner in which the fire is handled. The authors of this report, from their experience in firing residence heating apparatus and from observing the methods employed by many who attend to such apparatus, keenly appreciate the importance of proper firing methods, and they have written this report in the belief that some general remarks on the selection, care and operation of residence heating apparatus may prove of some value to many."

The authors are L. P. Breckenridge, consulting engineer of the bureau of mines and professor of mechanical engineering of Sheffield Scientific school, Yale university, and S. B. Flagg, mechanical engineer of the bureau of mines.

Operated in Haphazard Manner.

Among other things the report states: "Many furnaces and boilers are operated in a haphazard way; drafts are opened or coal is put on when the house becomes cool; then the fire is allowed to burn rapidly until either the rooms are too warm or the fuel bed is burned down too far to kindle properly a new charge of coal.

"Such firing is always wasteful. The heater should receive regular attention, and if the demands for heat are intelligently anticipated, as they ordinarily can be, the house can be warmed with minimum trouble and fuel. When the rooms become too warm the fire should be checked by stopping the admission of air under the grate and decreasing the draft by opening the check damper. If, as often is done, the ash pit damper or the ash pit door be allowed to remain open and the draft reduced by opening the fire door the combustion of the fuel continues, although at a slower rate, but the cold air entering the fire door chills the heater so that little heat is realized from the coal.

"To burn a pound of coal requires very much more than a pound of air, and the volume of a pound of air at atmospheric pressure is far greater than that of a pound of coal. To burn more coal requires more air, and this air must be forced into the ash pit and up through the fuel bed by the difference between the pressure of the hot air and gases over the fire pot and that of the air entering the ash pit—in other words, by the draft."

BLIND SWIMMER SAVES CHUM

Plunges into Pool and Brings Stunned Youth to Safety.

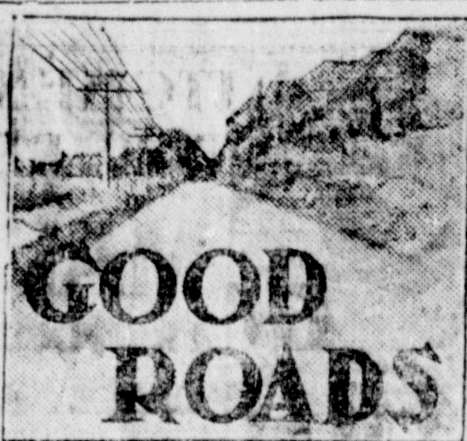

Frank W. Forester, a blind student at the University of California, rescued a blind freshman from drowning in the college swimming pool at Berkeley.

The two had been during each other to plunge from the high diving board. Forester's companion dived and hit the water in such a manner that he was stunned.

Forester, divining that something was wrong, jumped in and succeeded in getting his friend ashore, where he administered first aid with success.

EXPENSE OF BUILDING ROADS

Over $200,000,000 Spent on Highways Up to January 1, 1915—$1,000 Miles Constructed.

More than $200,000,000 of state appropriations have been expended to January 1, 1915, and an approximate total of 31,000 miles of surface highway constructed under state supervision since the inauguration of the policy known as "state aid," according to the Good Roads Year Book for 1915, issued by the American Highway association from its Washington office. Only seven states, Florida, Georgia, Indiana, Mississippi, South Carolina, Tennessee and Texas, have no form of state highway department whatever, although Georgia grants aid to the counties for road improvement by lending the services of the entire male state convict force.

Legislatures are devoting much attention to road legislation and unquestionably several new highway departments will result. North Carolina will probably establish an independent highway department in lieu of the work now done by the state geological survey relating to highways.

New Jersey in 1891 was the pioneer state in providing state aid for public highways. Massachusetts and Connecticut adopted the policy shortly after, but only during the last ten years has the state-aid policy been in effect on a considerable scale. About 5,000 miles of state highways were completed in 1913 and about 6,000 miles in 1914, so that the last two years have been responsible for more than one-third of the entire state highway mileage. The state highways in America now exceed by 6,000 miles the national road system of France.

To have state highway departments placed under non-partisan, efficient control; skilled supervision required in all construction work; a proper classification of highway to insure intelligent distribution of improvements; an adequate provision for maintenance of highways from the day of their completion—these are among the objects for which the American Highway association is waging a vigorous campaign.

PRACTICAL GOOD ROADS TEXT

Probably Three-Fourths of Difficulties Experienced in Season Could Be Eliminated.

How much better to drag the roads in early spring than to let the roads themselves become a "drag" next summer, when heavy teams loaded with produce must be hauled to market.

Probably three-fourths of the dirt road difficulties experienced during the season could be eliminated by a little industry right now.

The pleasure later on of hauling over roads free from ruts and gigantic mud puddles after the summer shower, will make up for any extra work this spring.

Here is a practical good roads text that will be carried out by many progressive communities this year.

Making Hard Roadbed.

To make a hard roadbed the soil must contain a fair amount of moisture. The control of the moisture requires that the roadbed be higher in the middle and smooth so that water cannot stand on it but will run off. If water can stand on the road, ruts will result, and when these are ground down, dust forms and finally a loose roadbed results.

The Road Drag.

The road drag is the simplest and least expensive contrivance yet devised for maintaining earth roads.

Roadbed Above Water.

Where there is standing water the roadbed should be kept at least a foot above the water surface and 18 inches is better. The nature of the soil and the length of time that the water stands along the road will to a degree determine how high the roadbed must be above the water.

Keeping Roadbed Crowned.

Keeping the roadbed well crowned and smooth will hold the moisture in it so that it will pack hard.

Fish Killed by Lightning.

There are cases on record of lightning flashes striking the surface of ponds, lakes and rivers, and killing quantities of fish.

ECONOMICAL FEED FOR EWES

Circular Issued by Missouri Experiment Station Gives Results Obtained With Rye and Grain.

The feeding of ewes suckling lambs is a factor which materially affects the profit derived from the production of spring lambs. A circular just issued by the agricultural experiment station at the University of Missouri reports the work done with ewes suckling lambs, fed on rye and blue grass pastures. Ewes were placed in four lots. In one lot ewes received grain on rye pasture. There in another lot received only rye pasture. In a third lot the ewes were fed grain on blue grass pasture, while those in lot four received only blue grass pasture.

The grain for both ewes and lambs consisted of equal parts of crushed corn, oats, bran and rape. The results show that the feeding of grain to ewes on rye and blue grass pasture was not profitable, if the ewes were to be kept. If the ewes were to be marketed with the lambs, the feeding of grain would have been profitable, because the ewes which did not receive grain became very thin and were not in condition to sell on the market, while those receiving grain maintained about the same condition of flesh throughout the experiment.

There was little difference in the efficiency of rye and blue grass pastures for ewes suckling lambs. In cases where grain was fed, the ewes on blue grass had decidedly the advantage, while in the other two lots in which no grain was fed, the rye had the advantage. The difference in each case was small. Rye will come a little earlier in the spring than blue grass, but will not afford as good a pasture in June as blue grass, because the rye heads and the sheep do not like coarse, woody stems.

BEST FEEDER CATTLE TYPES

Steers Intended for Profitable Gains in Feed Lot Must Possess Good Beef Characteristics.

How to select steers that will make good gains and return substantial profits should be well known by the man who plans to market his crops as feed this winter.

Steers, if they are to make profitable gains in the feed lot, must have beef characteristics, a wide, strong back and a large heart girth.

They must have a strong frame and plenty of room for the vital organs.

Prize Cattle.

for an animal with a weak constitution cannot hold up through the feeding season.

A wide head and muzzle, which usually indicate good feeding qualities.

Short legs, heavy hindquarters and arched ribs are essential in the feeding animal.

The skin should be reasonably thick, soft and covered by a heavy coat of hair.

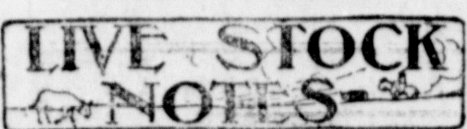

The animal should have a straight back and low-set appearance, due to the depth of body and short legs.

SAFE AND SURE FOR HORSES

Barbadoes Aloes, Four to Seven Drams, Makes Good Purgative—Castor Oil Is Uncertain.

In preparing a purge dose for a horse the medicine that is safest and surest is aloes; and only Barbadoes aloes should be used, not the Cape aloes. A dose will generally vary from four to seven drams. Linseed oil is a safe purgative, but it is uncertain. The dose varies from a pound to a pound and a half.

Castor oil is both uncertain and unsafe as a horse remedy, though it is fine for man. Croton in the form of a meal, made into a ball with linseed meal, is a good purge. Doses vary from a scruple to half a dram.

Fatten the unprofitable ewes quickly and make corned mutton. It is a fine change for the summer bill of fare.

Arrange the sheep pastures so the flock can be changed from one to the other—in this way keeping the bite right.

The last 200 pounds we can put on a young draft horse is the most profitable 200 pounds of meat we can produce on the farm.

CONFEDERATE HOSTS TO TAKE WASHINGTON.

Veterans of the Gray Invited to Hold Annual Reunion at Capital.

The veterans of the columns in gray which General Robert E. Lee hurled against the city of Washington and which were beaten back time after time by the stubborn lines of blue have been invited now to march into the city and take possession as friends of that which they sought as enemies.

To crown an everlasting establishment of unity between the north and south and to follow harmoniously the reunion of the blue and the gray at Gettysburg two years ago Colonel Andrew Cowan, commander of the First New York battery of the Sixth corps throughout the civil war, at a meeting of the Second Corps society in Washington proposed that the United Confederate Veterans be invited to hold their annual encampment in 1917 in the capital of the nation they sought to divide.

After Colonel Cowan had made this proposal he asked his Union audience for its opinion. "What say you?" he said. There was silence for a moment while the full meaning of the proposed invitation was sinking in, and then, realization of the significance of a Confederate encampment in Washington dawned, the soldiers of the Second corps rose and cheered, giving the invitation emphatic endorsement.

Colonel Hilary A. Herliot of the Eighth Alabama Infantry of the Confederate army, former secretary of the navy and now a lawyer in Washington, was called upon and, after reviewing the progress of peace between the north and south, received the invitation for the Confederate veterans, to whom he was commissioned to carry it.

THIRTEEN AMERICANS KILLED

Reports Increase Heavy Casualties in French Foreign Legions.

In the recent Champagne fighting thirteen Americans, all in the Foreign legion, gave their lives for France. The latest list brought to Paris give this many as missing, and they are believed to have been killed. They are:

Edmund C. Genet of New York, a great grandson of De Witt Clinton; Paul Pavella of Madison, Conn.; Lieutenant Sweeney, who was at West Point; Jack Casey, a New York artist; Fred Zinn of Battle-Creek, James Dowd of Brooklyn, Frederick Caldwell, Bob Scanlon, the negro puglist; Elov Nelson of Milwaukee, Robert Soubrin of New York, David King of Providence, Frank McGuire of New Orleans and Alan Seeger of New York, a former Harvard man who had a promising career as a poet and author and wrote several very brilliant articles describing scenes at the front.

Dr. David Wheeler of Boston, who was wounded, performed feats of heroism which were the subject of conversation everywhere. Though painfully wounded, he crawled among wounded soldiers, relieving their suffering by injecting morphine and doing what he could to dress their wounds. He was finally picked up exhausted and carried to the rear.

FLOATED SIXTY MILES.

Girl Was Carried to Safety on Door and Log in Texas Storm.

Miss Minnie Florea, seventeen years old, told the other day for the first time of her experience in the Galveston storm. She was one of a party of nineteen spending the summer at the Brazos life saving station when the hurricane broke. Her father, mother and all the rest were drowned. The point is sixty miles from Galveston, and the girl floated all the way there, most of the time unconscious.

"I could never stand swallowing salt water or getting it in my eyes," she said, "so I closed both mouth and eyes, and the wind blew me to the island. After I said good-by to father and mother I jumped from the window and landed on a door. I was knocked unconscious, but held on. Later I found myself clinging to a log, and I held on to it. One man offered to strap me to him, but I said I would rather die than to cause his death."

"Preparedness"

This word has loomed large in the news of the last year.

It has frequently been linked with another vital word—"SUCCESS."

It is an important word to the business man—a word that robs competition of its terrors.

"Preparedness" includes a definite expenditure for advertising to intrench the business or product in public good will.

It means the kind of "business insurance" advertising brings.

This newspaper will be very glad to discuss with any business man this phase of "business preparedness."

Philadelphia, Oct. 9.—The Philadelphia National League champions defeated the Boston Red Sox, pennant winners of the American League, in the opening game of the world series at the National League park.

The final score was: Philadelphia, 3; Boston, 1.

The Red Sox twirler yielded only five hits, as against eight of Alexander, but the Phillies' paragon of pitchers kept the blows scattered. Alex yielded just one hit in every inning but the last. The Nebraskan necromancer would have achieved a shut-out in his first world series game but for a fumble by Stock, the Phillies' third baseman, in the eighth inning.

Paskert, the first man up for the Phils in the fourth, sent one of Shore's curves on a low fly over First Baseman Hoblitzel's head for a single. Cravath, instead of hitting the ball out, laid down a neat sacrifice bunt in front of the plate, sending Dode to second. Paskert went to third when Barry threw out Luderus. Whitted then hit the ball to Barry, but the fleet runner beat the throw to first, setting a hit and sending Paskert over the plate with the first run.

Though Alexander gave the Red Sox a hit each inning but the ninth, his great work kept them runless until the eighth. Then, after Scott had tied to Niehoff, Speaker was walked, it being Tied's second pass of the game. Hoblitzel then hit to Stock, who, with an easy double play possible and the retirement of the side in sight, juggled the ball. The third baseman, however, recovered himself in time to get Hoblitzel at first. Duffy Lewis then whaled a long single to left, Speaker beating Whitted's throw to the plate with the tying run.

Larry Gardner then caught one of Alexander's fast shoots on the nose and sent it on a line between left and right. It seemed to be headed for the bleachers, but Paskert raced to the fence and made a sensational catch for the final out.

The Phillies went right back at the Red Sox in their half of the eighth, and put the game on ice. After Barry threw out Alexander, Stock worked Shore for a pass. Bancroft whaled the ball over second for a single. Barry made a phenomenal stop, but was unable to get either the runner, or Stock at second.

Shore then blew up like a punctured zeppelin, and walked Paskert, filling the bases. Cravath next came up to the plate and the Boston pitcher found himself in a hole. Gavy, however, topped one of Shore's fast ones and the ball rolled toward Barry. The former Mackman saw he had no chance to get Stock at the plate, the chubby legged third baseman skidding home with the winning run as Cravath was retired at first.

Luderus then sent an easy roller toward Shore, who slipped in the mud trying to field the hit. Bancroft meanwhile scoring the Phillies' third run. Luderus was retired for the final out trying to steal second. The score:

CHEER WILSON AND FIANCÉE

School Children Greet President and Mrs. Galt in New York.

New York, Oct. 9.—Five hundred school children and twice as many men and women, many of them in automobiles, were at the Pennsylvania railroad station to greet President Wilson and Mrs. Norman Galt, his bride-to-be, upon their arrival here.

The couple came from Washington accompanied by Miss Helen Woodrow Bones, the president's cousin; Mrs. Bolling, mother of the future mistress of the White House; Joseph P. Tumulty, the president's secretary, and Dr. Grayson. They spent eighteen hours in the city, going to the theatre, following a dinner at the home of Colonel E. M. House, and purchasing the engagement ring at a jeweller's, before leaving for Philadelphia on their return trip today.

The dinner and theatre party was the first of a series of entertainments between now and the wedding, which probably will be in December.

WAR NEARING END, IS GERMAN BELIEF

Advance on Gallipoli and Turk Drive on Egypt, Next Stage.

Berlin, Oct. 9.—German military experts declared that, with the Austro-German invasion of Serbia the war has entered its final phase.

Plans have been carefully laid for a rapid advance through Serbia and with an Austro-German and Bulgarian army upon the peninsula of Gallipoli, a Turkish army of immense proportions will be released for operations against Egypt.

Meanwhile they will continue to hold the allies on the western front, without any attempt at an offensive there which would cost more in human life than the effort would be worth.

While the new Teutonic campaign in the Balkans naturally is a drain upon their strength in other arenas, it likewise compels the allies to withdraw troops from their fronts. But the drain upon the Teutonic strength is more than made up by the entrance of Bulgaria in the war on the side of Germany, Austria and Turkey.

General Greene Makes "Intelligent Guess" of European Slaughter.

West Point, N. Y., Oct. 9.—General Francis Vinton Greene, of the United States army, retired, in an address on the war before the New York State Historical association, gave what he called an "intelligent guess" of the casualties. He estimated the number of killed at 2,066,000, the wounded at 3,626,000, the missing 2,305,000 and the total casualties at 7,997,000.

General Greene divided the total losses as follows: Great Britain, 392,000; Italy, 250,000; France, 1,400,000; Russia, 2,200,000; Belgium, 80,000; Serbia, 70,000. Total allied losses, 4,167,000. Losses of the Teutonic allies were estimated as: Germany, 1,900,000; Austria, 1,800,000; Turkey, 150,000. Total for Teutonic allies, 3,830,000.

HELPFUL HINTS FOR HOUSEWIVES

Simple Device For Quickly Threading Needles.

A blind woman may thread a needle with the little apparatus which has been recently patented by a New Yorker. This device consists largely of a handle by which to make use of a resilient loop of fine wire. The wire is bent on itself, forming a large and somewhat pointed loop, which because of its firmness is easily thrust through the eye of the needle. The thread is slipped through the loop, and as it passes through the eye of the needle it carries the strand of cotton with it.

Stuffed Cucumber Pickles.

Take twelve large cucumbers just before turning yellow. Let them lie in salt water for nine days, then soak in fresh water for twenty-four hours. Cut lengthwise, slit and remove seeds. Place in a kettle with layers of grape leaves and over each layer sprinkle a little alum and cover with equal parts of vinegar and water, steep them until green, then allow them to drain and stuff with raisins and lemons sliced very thin, with rind left on. Fasten opening together with toothpicks or sew together. Make a soup of one pound of white sugar and one pint of vinegar, half teaspoonful of cloves and cinnamon; boil the sirup and pour over them. Repeat this for nine mornings. These pickles do not require sealing. Place away in stone jar, with sirup over them.

Chopped Sweet Pickle.

For a delicious chopped sweet pickle highly spiced, chop fine one peck of green tomatoes, four white onions and six green peppers (free from seeds). Sprinkle over the ingredients a scant cupful of salt and let stand overnight. In the morning drain thoroughly, add half a cupful of grated horseradish, two cupfuls of brown sugar, two tablespoonfuls each of ground cloves, cinnamon and nutmeg and sufficient cold vinegar to cover the ingredients. Cook until of the desired consistency, stirring frequently, and seal in sterilized self sealing jars.

Marbled Potatoes.

Beat three cupfuls of mashed potatoes until very light with butter, salt and cream to suit your taste. Beat a half cupful of strained tomato juice into the yolk of an egg until the mixture is well blended and stir into a half of the potato you have prepared. Whip the white of the egg to a stiff froth and work that into the rest. Butter a baking dish and put the potato into it, alternating the light and dark mixtures. Sprinkle fine breadcrumbs over the top and bake about twenty minutes in a moderate oven.

Stuffed Eggs.

Mash the yolks of four hard boiled eggs with a teaspoonful of curry powder and about a tablespoonful of mayonnaise dressing. Mix cold veal or chicken mixed with the grated yolks of hard boiled eggs seasoned slightly with salt, the whole moistened with cream, makes another splendid filling. To serve form the mixture into balls about the size of the original egg yolk and set them in circles made from quarter inch slices of the whites of the eggs. Serve on crisp lettuce leaves.

Creamed Dried Lima Beans.

Soak lima beans overnight. In the morning drain and cover with fresh water. Two hours before dinner time drain again, cover with soft boiling water and boil thirty minutes. Drain again and cover with fresh boiling soft water with bicarbonate of soda (an eighth teaspoonful to a pint of dry beans). When tender drain, season with salt and pepper, dredge with flour, add butter and cream, boil up once and serve.

Potato Creole.

Slice cold boiled potatoes very thin. Into a deep frying pan put one cupful of oil, sliced finely. Fry until slightly brown. Add the potatoes and one-half cupful of green peppers, cut in small pieces. Fry until a golden brown, season with salt and pepper and serve. Try fresh corn as a substitute for the potatoes.

Turnip Croquettes.

To two cupfuls of mashed turnips add the well beaten yolks of two eggs, salt, pepper and paprika. Let this get very cold, then roll into balls, roll in fine crumbs, then in beaten egg, again in crumbs and fry in deep fat.

YALE TO TRAIN GUNNERS.

Artillery Battery Will Be Quartered Near the Campus.

A call for volunteers in a Yale artillery battery to be composed of 138 students in the graduate and undergraduate departments of the university was recently issued. The university will contribute $30,000 for the construction of new barracks near the campus, and until then drill will be held once a week in the Yale baseball cage. The Connecticut national guard will give $135,000 for guns and equipment.

Major General Leonard Wood and President Hadley of Yale are sponsors for the plan. An army officer will be stationed in New Haven to drill the men.

Concentrated Sun Rays.

Archimedes once arranged a number of mirrors so as to bring the rays of the sun to a point called a focus, which means a hearth. The heat thus gathered together from the sunshine is said to have been sufficient to set fire to the Roman ships, which were besieging the harbor of Syracuse.

HOW THE LOVE POTION WORKED

Amusing Result of a Scientific Experiment.

"I tell you, doctor, we have no knowledge of the point where the imagination gives place to the germ or the germ gives place to the imagination."

"And I tell you, doctor, the imagination has nothing to do with it. The germ produces the disease."

"How do you account for the deaths that have occurred in cases where the subject supposes himself to have been poisoned, when he has not been poisoned?"

"I don't believe one has ever been substantiated."

"Do you admit that men and women have gone mad for love?"

"No. They have gone mad while in love. They would have eventually gone mad anyway."

"I will produce love by means of the imagination."

"Nonsense."

Dr. Finch, who made this daring proposition, sat thinking, while his companion, Dr. Hargrave, lighted a fresh cigar. Presently Finch said:

"Your Alice is now about fourteen, I believe. My Dick is fifteen. For my part, a match between them, when older, would be acceptable. How do you feel about it?"

"I should not object."

"Very well. We will give the children lessons in germs and their effects, then administer to each a dose, telling them that it is an infection of love, after which they shall be kept for a time in proximity with each other."

"Agreed."

A week later each one of the children was given a dose of some sweet smelling liquid—the principal odor was of violet—and told that it would infect them with love. Then they were packed off together to a farm owned by Dr. Finch, where they were put under the care of the farmer and his wife, Alice, who took far more interest in the disease than Dick, had purloined the bottle from which her father had given her the infecting dose and proposed to experiment with it on her own account. Dick told her that he had been given a dose, and she was interested to know how the disease would first appear. But Dick found some farmer boys, who invited him to the trout grounds and the swimming hole, and for the first two or three days Alice saw nothing of him. When he got back to the farmhouse he had forgotten all about the love germs.

Not so Alice. She watched eagerly for the first symptom of the infection, feeling her pulse and looking at her tongue a dozen times a day. In her letters home, which she said that she mailed once a week, she said that she "didn't think the potion could have been strong enough, because she didn't feel any different from when she left home." Her father showed the letter to his friend Finch in triumph, but the confident Finch told him to wait. Soon after this a letter came from Dick to his father, in which he mentioned the fact that Alice had said that he needed more of the infecting dose, and she was cramming it into him.

A month passed, and the doctors were beginning to consider the experiment a failure, when a letter came from Alice which changed the situation.

"I've got the disease," she said, "and I feel so funny. I like it. Dick's got it too. I got it first, then Dick came down with it. I wonder which will get well first. It is the nicest disease I ever had. Nothing at all like that nasty old measles."

Dick wrote in a different vein. "Alice says that I'm infected," he said, "but I don't know. I don't feel exactly like she does, but I suppose she's right about it."

Drs. Finch and Hargrave met on the street soon after the arrival of these letters, and Finch crowded over his opponent, though he consoled him on the ground that their friendship would be continued by the union of their child.

The next day each received a telegram from the farmer to come at once. Fearing that their children had been thrown under a mowing machine, they met on the first train to start for the farm. Hiring a wagon at the station, they were driving down the road when they met Alice walking beside a red faced, freckled country gawk about twenty years old in a woolen shirt, no coat and his hair sticking through holes in his hat.

"The germs have worked, papa," she exclaimed. "I've given Hank a dose, and he's got it too. He says he's got it awful."

"Got in here," said the father angrily and evidently unimpaired of the scientific features of the case. Alice obeyed the order, and Hank was leaned back in his seat, put his handkerchief to his face and roared with laughter. But when they reached the farmhouse the tables were turned. There sat Dick beside a homely young woman of eighteen in a calico dress and sunbonnet.

"I'm glad you've come, pop," he said. "I'm tired of this business. Alice says I've got a love fever, and so does Miss Shakers, but I don't believe it."

Dr. Finch, whose laughter had died away, looked at Dr. Hargrave.

"Our next experiment will be under the care of a trained nurse," said the former.

"And this one will not be reported in the medical journals," replied the latter.

Marriage Rings.

There is no law saying that a wedding ring must necessarily be of gold. Marriages have been celebrated when, in the absence of a proper ring, the ring on a church door key has been used.
